Man jailed over weapons arsenal

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A HAVERHILL man has been jailed for three years for hoarding a huge arsenal of weapons at his home in a quiet cul-de-sac.

Hand grenades and machine guns were among the stash seized by police from Karl Dowling's home in Bramble Close, on February 10.

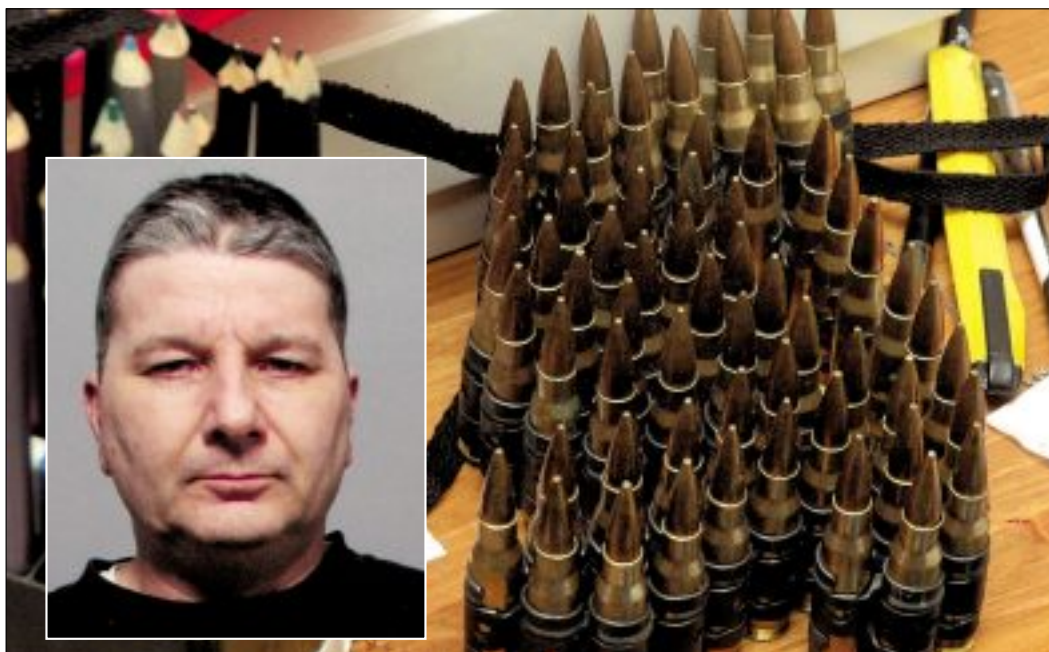

Officers also uncovered 4,000 rounds of assorted ammunition at the address.

Neighbours were evacuated from their homes and bomb disposal experts were also drafted in after police came across a grenade during their search.

Dowling, 48, admitted a number of firearms offences including unlawful possession of prohibited automatic firearms, hand guns and rifles when he appeared at Ipswich Crown Court on Monday.

He also admitted ammunition offences and was sentenced to a total of three years in prison.

Town centre earns boost

HAVERHILL town centre will receive a £10,000 cash injection as part of a government scheme.

Despite failing to become a Portas Pilot town, Haverhill has become a Town Team Partner after nomination by West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock.

More than 400 towns applied for part of retail guru Mary Portas's original scheme, which aimed to transform struggling high streets with a share of a £1 million pot.

Only 12 towns were selected by local government minister Grant Shapps but he invited MPs to nominate towns in their constituency to become part of the new scheme.

The money will help put key elements of the town's plans into action.

Cllr John Griffiths, leader of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "Besides the £10,000, Haverhill will receive expert support from mentors and professional experts at the ATCM (the Association of Town Centre Management), to help deliver our ambitions for the town."

"I look forward to seeing innovative ideas to improve prosperity being put into practice."

The Town Team Partner scheme is part of the government's plans to reinvigorate town centres and encourage local businesses.

Three-year sentence for illegal weapons

■ From Page 1

While he held a firearms licence, many of the weapons seized were not covered by it and were being kept illegally, the court heard.

Prosecutor Robert Sadd told the court that Dowling had so many guns at his house that they could not all fit into the gun cabinets he had.

Mr Sadd said: "There wasn't room for them all and they were simply in a modern house. There were normal locks and no additional security."

Judge David Goodin told Dowling: "One of these weapons in the wrong hands could have done untold damage."

Judge Goodin said Dowling's collection was a "lethal arsenal" which could have had "terrifying" consequences if any of the weapons had fallen into the wrong hands and been used. Dowling had held a firearms certificate for a number of years previously and could not have failed to be aware of the implications of keeping weapons illegally, said the judge.

Defending, Nicholas Doherty said Dowling had amassed the collection because of his love of guns. Dowling had been diagnosed with Asperger's Syndrome and been unaware of the seriousness of what he was doing.

Neighbours expressed shock at the size of the stash uncovered by police.

One, who did not wish to be named, said: "We didn't really know what was going on. The police just came and closed off the end of the street."

"It is a worry now to think that he had all those weapons in there."

Another said: "He was just an overzealous collector and has paid the price for it.

"I'm sure he has learned his lesson from this. It is just a real shame."

"The Karl I know was a friendly, placid bloke. If there was snow on the ground he would be the first one out there with a shovel."

Allan Cole, a firearms expert for Suffolk police, who attended the scene and examined the items found, said: "We would like to take this opportunity to urge anyone who has a firearm and does not have a licence or is concerned that one or more of their firearms is not covered by a current licence to contact the Firearms Licensing Department and avoid something like this happening again."

To contact the firearms licensing unit, call 101.

Traffic ban will be given high priority

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

POLICE and town councillors are to join forces to try to persuade motorists to stop flouting a traffic ban in their High Street.

Haverhill's police sector commander Inspector Peter Ferrie got an angry reception at a recent Safer Neighbourhood Team priority setting meeting after suggesting that illegal parking and entry into the High Street should no longer be a priority for his officers, as however many tickets they issued seemed to make no difference to motorists' habits.

Residents attending the meeting insisted that the police should uphold the law in the street.

At Tuesday's Haverhill Town Council meeting, Inspector Ferrie said his officers would be giving a very high priority to the problem, with a significant number of officers on duty in the street, along with other stakeholders such as town councillors, the mayor and town clerk.

Starting at 11am on Monday, they will be stopping all cars entering the High Street during the whole day to see whether they are entitled to be there.

The High Street is currently closed to traffic between 10am and 4pm, with the exception of vehicles unloading and blue badge holders. But the ban is largely ignored with vehicles frequently parked on the pavements and others simply driving through as a short cut.

Suggestions made at the SNT meeting that cars should be towed away if they are illegally parked in the street were considered too expensive and discouraging to shoppers visiting the town by the town council.

Town clerk Will Austin said: "The town council has great sympathy with the inspector's position and supports his view that the only real solution is to pedestrianise the High Street."

"We feel that people feel nothing is going to happen to them, so we are taking some action to try to gain a greater understanding of why people are there and to try to persuade them not to be unless they are entitled.

"People who should not be there will be moved on and the police will be there on many more days and I imagine they will be issuing tickets to people entering or parking illegally."

"We feel that it is important to enforce the moving traffic regulations and stop people coming into the street in the first place, so that they do not then park illegally."

"The regulations are flouted routinely and we are looking at making the traffic one-way at the end of Camps Road, so that traffic coming from Swan Lane has somewhere to go and, and providing some kind of manned barrier for people entering the High Street."

"We believe that the majority of people do want to see the High Street pedestrianised as our survey of 750 people clearly showed."

Getting ready for new season

AFTER an exciting and very successful season earlier this year when they sang the Verdi Requiem with Sudbury Choral Society in St Edmundsbury Cathedral, the new season has begun in earnest for members of Haverhill Choral Society.

They are now in rehearsal for their next concert on Sunday, November 11 at 6pm. The Remembrance Concert will be performed in the Lakeside Pavilion at Sturmer Hall.

The music has been selected by musical director Jane Wright to suit the occasion. There will also be readings and special effects.

Tickets are available from choir members or Sturmer Hall via their website.

Half-term fun

KIDS can enjoy sports, messy play and a spooky Hallowe'en party at a holiday club in October. Thurlow Pre-school, in Little Thurlow, is putting on the club for children aged 2-7 years old from 8am to 3.30pm during half-term. The club costs £12 per day or £14 including lunch. # 'Dusty' tragedy upsets family and colleagues

DISTRAUGHT work colleagues and relatives of a taxi controller who died after being told to wait more than three hours for an emergency appointment claim his life might have been saved had he received medical attention sooner.

Richard White, 62, who was known as Dusty, was taken ill at work early last Friday morning and taken to Stourview Medical Centre in Haverhill at 8am by Jan Brazier.

She told the receptionist that Mr White had suffered previous mini strokes, had been violently sick and was in terrible pain. This information was relayed to a doctor, who said that Mr White should return at 11.30am for an emergency appointment.

Ms Brazier offered to wait in the surgery with Mr White, but he told her he would rather go home and lie down.

When her brother Steve, proprietor of Star Cars in High Street, Haverhill, returned to Mr White's house at Elmdon Place to take him back to the surgery, he found him dead in a chair.

Taxi driver Laurie Gott, who first found Mr White feeling unwell at work, said he planned to lodge a complaint with the Suffolk Primary Care Trust about Mr White's treatment and that the town's walk-in clinic was closed in July.

Mr Gott said: "He looked absolutely terrible. He had been violently sick and was ashen faced.

"Now we wish we had called an ambulance to take him straight to hospital, but we took him to his doctors and they knew he had suffered mini strokes before and was on heart medication.

"I think a doctor should have at least looked at him and if the Crown Health Centre was still open we would have taken him straight down there.

"I am not saying he would not have died, but he would have got medical attention straightaway. They give us something like that and then take it away. You should not have to wait three and a half hours for an emergency appointment."

Mr White's ex-wife Mary, with whom he has eight children and 17 grandchildren, said:

Devastated: taxi driver Laurie Gott, boss Stephen Hearn and administration manager Jan Brazier; inset above, taxi controller Richard White, known as Dusty, who died last Friday.

Main picture: Keith Heppell 862052

"When they told me what happened I was absolutely disgusted. They knew he had a history of heart trouble and at the very least the doctor should have had a look at him.

"Everyone at the taxi firm is really upset, but they did everything they could for him."

Steve Hearn said: "If the walk-in clinic was still there and his own surgery had not turned him away, he might still be alive."

Dr Bamidele Sule of Stourview Medical Centre said: "Everyone at Stourview Medical Centre offers their sympathies to the family of Mr White.

"Our duty to protect patient confidentiality means we cannot comment on individual cases.

"We would urge the family to contact us if they need our support or help at this difficult time.

"Rest assured we are committed to offering the best level of care to all our patients."

Bag and sat nav taken from car

CASH, a handbag and a satellite navigation system were stolen from a car during the night.

Police in Haverhill are appealing for information after the theft from a black Ford Galaxy parked on Bergamot Road between 10.30pm on Monday, September 17 and 8.40am the following day.

Entry was possibly gained by forcing the door.

Calls can be made to PC Rebecca Molisso on 101, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

£3k boost for town pastors after helping hundreds of revellers

TOWN Pastors have helped deal with 1,322 incidents in Haverhill over the past five months and will receive a £3,000 cash boost for their work.

Haverhill Town Council agreed to make the grant to the group at its meeting on Tuesday after hearing about the work carried out in the town centre.

The cash will be used to pay for equipment and insurance, as well as to buy water and chocolate bars, which are handed out to revellers in the town on Friday and Saturday night.

There are currently 15 pastors working in the town on a voluntary basis.

From April to the end of August this year they had dealt with 17 different kinds of incidents in the town.

The greatest numbers of incidents were in handing out water and refreshment (410), helping under 18s (238), removing dangerous items such as bottles and glasses (218) and safely removing alcohol (129).

Town clerk Will Austin said:

"The town council is very grateful to the town pastors for the work they do and happy to give them additional funding.

"They stop many situations developing into something violent or where the police need to be involved.

"They have a non-judgemental approach and people are less likely to be aggressive towards them.

"We fully support them in the valuable work they do for our community."

X-Factor judges say no to Lorna

X-FACTOR judges have given a firm 'no' to Britney Spears lookalike Lorna Bliss, from Haverhill.

She failed to impress the show's judges with her latest raunchy routine on the TV show on Sunday.

Ofcom is investigating whether the 33-year-old's performance broke its broadcasting code after it received 34 complaints from the public.

Decked out in a revealing tiny lime green bikini and fishnet body stocking, Lorna writhed across the judges' desk, wrapped her legs around Louis Walsh's neck and chased Gary Barlow into the audience when he tried to escape.

It was third time unlucky for Lorna, who carried out similar antics when she appeared on the show earlier this year and last year.

And she's out: Lorna Bliss, whose raunchy antics saw her dropped from X-Factor.

Salvation Army pair set to bid farewell to supporters

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

TWO Salvation Army majors will be conducting their last service on Sunday as they step down from their roles and retire from the church.

Sidney and Georgina Pinches, who have both served within the church for more than 20 years, took over at its headquarters in Chauntry Road, Haverhill, 15 months ago.

They are moving to Glemsford, to be close to their son and daughter-in-law, as well as three young grandchildren.

Sidney, 65, and Georgina, 60, put off their retirement to take up the position in Haverhill, having previously spent three years at RAF Wittering and, before that, 16 years in Hong Kong.

They met during their Salvation Army training and have been married for 36 years, and have three married children.

The couple took a 20-year break from their Salvation Army ministry while in Hong Kong, where Sidney was project manager for a new flagship YMCA building, then chief estates manager for the largest private residential estate, with 16,000 flats inhabited by 60,000 people.

Sidney said: "We came to Haverhill for a year and then extended it. We have had an excellent time here – the place has a real buzz about it."

"It has been very busy – the church has a lovely spirit and we are growing in numbers, which is unusual for churches these days. It is an older congregation, but that does not matter as they punch above their weight.

"We have worked very well with the other ministries and Churches Together is a good thing. We have seen the start of Town Pastors and there could even be town centre chaplains in future."

Georgina added: "It has gone very well – we have really good fellowship and spirit and long may it continue with our successor."

Captain Valerie Morgan, originally from Yorkshire, will take over at the Haverhill church on October 4, having previously served in Northern Ireland.

Sidney, who is the fourth generation of his family to serve the Salvation Army, hopes to continue in some kind of part-time chaplaincy, promoting its work as the largest provider of social welfare after the government, providing beds for 3,500 people every night.

Georgina hopes to complete her studies for a PHD in medical ethics.

West Wickham

■ Draft minutes from a parish meeting held at the end of July have been posted on the noticeboard. A variety of subjects were discussed and a few are outlined below.

The Old Filtration Plant – SCDC has agreed to pay the costs for passing the ownership to the parish council but before the council agrees to taking ownership it is necessary to know to whom the track leading to the piece of land belongs.

Woodland Trust – Cllr Hall had looked at the proposed site for the new trees and is submitting the plan to the Woodland Trust. There are 60 trees available, some of which could also be planted on Maypole Croft.

Village sign – all agreed this would be good to have but various points needed settling before a decision on who would make it, such as cost, design, its placing and what should be depicted on it.

Village questionnaire – 75 per cent of the forms had been returned and were being analysed and collated. The findings will go on a spread sheet and discussed fully at the next meeting.

Wrattling Common Cross Roads (arising from the parish meeting) – the chairman is liaising with the chairman of West Wrattling Parish Council as the crossroads are in the West Wrattling parish. The county council is not keen to put up a "stop" sign but discussions are still ongoing.

Neighbourhood Watch – (arising from the parish meeting). There will be an email available giving information concerning crime, anti-social behaviour, security etc. Cllr Grieve is looking into finding a solution for those who do not have email.

Wildlife – Cllrs Licence and Hall had a meeting with Laura Osborne of the Wildlife Trust and she suggested a survey of the flora is carried out through the year on the two decommissioned allotments to find out what grows there, to cut the grass in August/September and return to her for further advice.

Report by District Cllr Barrett – consultation concerning the Local Plan is at present being carried out, ending in September. There appears to be no plans for any development in smaller villages unless requested by the village itself.

Report by County Cllr Batchelor – He is a member of the liaison committee for the wind farm and its next meeting will be in October. A representative from the village can attend.

He also asks for everyone to sign up for the high-speed broadband. The fibre optic cabling is being installed along the A1307.

Any other business – Cllr Morris told the council the West Wickham &

District Local History Club has applied for a grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund to do a series of archaeological test pits around the parish and will know in October whether this has been allocated.

■ West Wickham doesn't have a village sign as other villages in the area do, but the parish council would like to rectify this and would appreciate residents' thoughts on several important factors: Where it should be placed and what should be depicted on the sign? Please contact the parish council chairman, Marcus Cornish on (01223) 290203 or at wmcorn@hotmail.com or the parish council clerk, Jenny Richards at jrichards007@talktalk.net.

Council will now back new school

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A NEW special free school due to open next year will now receive support from the county council, even though it failed to back the original bid.

Samuel Ward Academy in Haverhill successfully put together a bid under a very tight timescale earlier this year, which was approved by the Department of Education despite the fact that Suffolk County Council did not support it.

However, the council confirmed this week that it will be commissioning places at the new school.

The new Churchill Free School is due to open on the Samuel Ward site next September and will provide special needs education provision for up to 70 pupils from the age of 8-18, who at present would have to travel to schools in Bury St Edmunds, Sudbury or Ipswich.

It will cater for young people with language and interaction problems, autism and high performing Aspergers Syndrome. It is envisaged that many of the pupils will receive 80 per cent of their lessons in mainstream education.

Samuel Ward Academy principal

'Really pleased': Howard Lay.

Howard Lay was a guest speaker at the September meeting of the bestofhaverhill group.

He said market research was undertaken by Lisa Taylor, communications officer for Samuel Ward, to show the need for a special school did exist in Haverhill and a proposed curriculum developed.

Initially Suffolk County Council refused to support the bid as councillors feared the funding pot in Suffolk would be diluted, but the Samuel Ward team continued with the bid regardless.

Mr Lay said: "The Churchill Free School is a huge success for Haverhill. For years now the most vulnerable pupils in our community have been forced to travel as far as Ipswich to school.

"I believe this is an outrage and I am really pleased that as from September next year these pupils can be educated in their home town. This should make life a lot easier for the children, their parents and carers."

Graham Newman, Suffolk County Council's cabinet member for education and young people, said: "Suffolk County Council takes a neutral position to the creation of free schools.

"When it comes to special schools, we have to be mindful that many parents want their children taught in mainstream settings.

"Any suggestion that funding places in a special school might disproportionately reduce funding for places elsewhere needs to be looked at seriously.

"In relation to the Haverhill proposal, the information we had at the time meant we didn't feel we could support the bid.

"We had some concerns about funding arrangements and the range of educational provision proposed for the school. We didn't, however, oppose it.

"Since the DoE has approved the bid we have had further discussions with the free school's developers and are now looking at placing children in the school when it opens in September 2013."

More ideas must be explored now

Sir, Does the town council's survey on pedestrianisation accurately reflect public opinion? I wish to express my thoughts on this issue. Firstly, was a representative sample of the population surveyed? The survey was conducted in the Market Square on Fridays and in the pedestrianised High Street on Saturdays. People with limited mobility, including those who rely on parking in the High Street, were probably under-represented in the survey.

Secondly, were the results influenced by comments made by those conducting the survey? The survey question was simple, do you want the High Street closed to all traffic 10am-4pm? However, when I was given a form I was told, of course, arrangements will be made for people like yourself (I use a mobility scooter).

These arrangements would be to reserve the car park behind Stevens' for blue badge holders. This is 70 metres away from the High Street, a considerable distance for those with limited mobility to walk to reach the shops. Returning to the car park doubles the distance.

On another occasion, a survey respondent was overheard asking, what about the disabled? He was told that a dedicated car park would be provided. Given this information, he completed the survey. He wasn't told that many blue badge holders think the car park is too far away from the High Street. He may have answered differently with that information.

The county council had a consultation on pedestrianisation earlier this year, although with fewer respondents. A majority wanted the disabled to have access to the High Street. Some people said they were in favour of pedestrianisation but then went on to say they also wanted disabled access. These people's opinions could have been swayed in the town council's survey.

In summary, can we be certain the survey conducted by the town council provides reliable evidence to prove that 70% of the public want the High Street closed to all traffic 10am-4pm? I think not.

It was originally suggested that a professional firm be paid to carry out this survey. In retrospect, perhaps that would have been a good idea.

What we do know is that the current traffic regulation order has not been adequately enforced since the town lost its traffic warden. The police force doesn't have enough staff to assign an officer to control High Street traffic.

It is unlikely that the county council will change the TRO to allow a fixed barrier 10am-4pm due to the number and strength of official objections to that proposal earlier this year. These objections relate to the intractable problems of allowing deliveries to businesses without rear service access and providing adequate disabled access. Faced with these objections, the county

Could you help to reunite old friends?

A TRACTOR driver has appealed for help to find an old friend from national service whom he has not seen for 52 years.

Michael Barker, 73, of Framlingham, wants to find his old driving buddy Peter Mayes, who was in his regiment in 1958-60.

He said he had not seen Peter since they parted at Ipswich Station in 1960 after they were demobbed on November 20.

Mr Barker said: "I'm in my later years so you start to think about people from the past more."

They struck up a friendship on the train to Wales when they found out they were both from Suffolk, as Peter lived in Barnadiston before his national service.

In Wales they learnt how to drive and did their military training before they went to serve in Germany together.

Mr Barker said: "We were the two best drivers in the regiment, that's why we were both sent over to Germany."

In Germany they conducted NATO training exercises as the Cold War had started.

He admitted he had not enjoyed his military service much but said it had been good for him.

"It was a bit of a different life for me as I was used to being out in the fields whereas we had to do a lot of work indoors like cleaning.

"We did say we would keep in contact with each other but we never managed to."

Mr Barker returned to his job on the farm and married his wife Pat 49 years ago before having two children.

He said: "I don't know if he would recognise me now as we were 19 years old when we met."

If you have any information on Peter please call Michael Barker on 01728 723915 or email michaelbarker@btinternet.com.

would have to refer the matter to an independent public inquiry. An inquiry would cost a great deal, and there is no guarantee that it would approve closing the High Street.

Alternative methods of enforcement have been suggested by councillors and the public in the last few months. Two other ideas, proposed by Haverhill's disabled access group, the Haverhill Locality Planning Network, are to station an employee at the entrance to the High Street to allow only permitted traffic into the street, or to install an automated barrier opened by electronic passes, as in Cambridge. To prevent parking on pavements, could removable bollards be installed? These are used in St Andrews Street, Cambridge. Has there been any progress on the suggestion made in April to decriminalise enforcement so the town can hire its own warden? All these ideas should be explored, the experiences of other towns researched (are fewer people shopping in St Ives since towing was introduced?), and the advantages, disadvantages, and costs of each evaluated.

Stroke survivors need fairer deal

Sir, The Stroke Association has launched a new report, Short-changed by stroke, showing the drastic impact that a stroke can have on the finances of working age survivors and their families. The sudden nature of stroke means that there is no time to plan.

Stroke survivors told us that trying to claim benefits left them feeling humiliated and frustrated as the impact of their stroke is not understood.

Benefit assessments often focus solely on physical abilities and little attention is paid to the hidden or fluctuating disabilities caused by stroke. Having a stroke is bad enough, but too many stroke survivors are fighting for financial support when they should be focusing on their recovery.

An adequate financial safety net for those in need is a mark of a civilised society. No stroke survivor should be forced to turn off their heating or cut back on food in order to make ends meet.

We want a fairer system that respects the dignity of stroke survivors and enables people to make the recovery they can. Your readers can find out more at www.stroke.org.uk/campaigns.

Downpour forces show to close early

A CHARITY event which had been cancelled earlier in the year because of bad weather was cut short by a torrential downpour on Sunday.

The Classic and Vintage Car and Bike Show at Shudy Camps was the first of its kind to be organised in aid of the Cambridge-based James Whale Kidney Fund.

Ten motorbikes and 20 cars turned out from 10am, despite the remote location.

But a heavy downpour forced an early finish at 2pm.

The money raised is expected to cover the cost of the event, with a small amount left for the charity.

Leela Abbott from the fund said: "It started off OK, then the heavens opened and we just had to pack everything away."

"We have got to review the cost implications to the charity, but we would like to hold it again. As we are a Cambridge-based charity, it would be nice to try to hold it in Cambridge next time."

Suspended prison term for fake firearm man

A MAN who caused a gun scare when he was stopped carrying an imitation firearm has received a suspended prison sentence.

Timothy Clark, 26, admitted possessing an imitation firearm in a public place at Dovehouse Road, Haverhill, on Friday, August 31 at 12.30pm, which caused armed police officers from Bury St Edmunds and Ipswich to be sent to the town.

Clark, from Bloomsfield Road, Haverhill, appeared at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court on Tuesday after his case was adjourned three weeks ago for an all options pre-sentence report to be prepared.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

District Judge Celia Dawson told Clark, who has a previous conviction in 2005 for possessing an offensive weapon which was not a firearm, that he would receive a three-month prison sentence suspended for two years, with a supervision requirement for two years. He was also ordered to do 80 hours of unpaid community work and to pay £85 costs.

Judge Dawson said: "Someone knew that you had this weapon in public and informed the police. You need to be aware that a weapon of this nature, even if not adapted to use real bullets, can be adapted and is so like the real thing that it can be used to intimidate people. That is why this is such a serious offence."

Ros Keppelman, prosecuting, said Clark was stopped in Wrattling Road, Haverhill, with another man and was carrying what appeared to be a Glock pistol-type handgun in a carrier bag. He told firearms officers: "This is not a handgun, it's a BB gun. I found it on the railway walk and I was going to hand it in to you lot."

However, text messages were found on Clark's phone in which he discussed the weapon with a friend.

Lyndon Davies, for Clark, said there was no suggestion that the handgun had been brandished, as it was in a carrier bag, and his client had no intention of using it.

He said: "The report raises the issue of his lack of understanding of the potential effect on people if they did see the gun, and that he was not aware that it was illegal to have it in a public place. These are issues which can be dealt with by extending his supervision."

Celebration time for big anniversary

VISITORS helped a church to celebrate its 350th anniversary.

The Old Independent URC in Haverhill held an open day on Saturday, followed by a celebration service in the afternoon led by the Rev Karen Knight, with the sermon given by Rev Paul Whittle, Moderator of the Eastern Synod for the United Reformed Church.

Mary Malyon, who was christened at the church in 1935, was among the visitors.

There were also displays and information from the Haverhill & District Local History Group and the Suffolk History Group, flower displays by church members and information on junior church activities. A further celebration was held at the church's harvest festival service on Sunday.

Church member Rachel Peddar said: "The current congregation can only assume that we were known as the 'Independent' Church to begin with and have become known as the 'Old' Independent Church by the passing of time. In fact we are happy congregation with a mixture of age groups and talents."

Warm welcome: Rev Karen Knight at the Old Independent URC in Haverhill.

Bargains in focus for TV challenge

A FILM crew descended on an antique shop for a visit by a dealer looking for bargains for a television challenge.

Expert Phillip Serrill went to the Steeple Bumpstead showrooms of Bumpstead Antiques & Interiors on Sunday to film a segment for the forthcoming new series of the BBC's Antiques Road Trip.

Proprietor Graham Hessel helped to point out items in the showroom which might sell for a good profit and help Mr Serrill raise more money on his trip around the area than his opponent on the show.

Mr Serrill – complete with trademark scarf – commented on the stock and layout, before delving through the varied art and collectables on display, lamenting on the fact that he had very limited funds to spend.

Nevertheless he chose several items to discuss on camera and negotiate on, but viewers will have to tune in to the programme in the new year to see if he could he persuade Mr Hessel to agree the ridiculous prices he offered.

Previous visits to Bumpstead Antiques & Interiors and their sister shop Cavendish Antiques & Tea Rooms took place about 18 months ago, when the late David Barbie was the visiting expert along with Mr Serrill.

Apprentice Tom hands out prizes in hospice challenge

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

AN accountancy firm has won a charity fundraising challenge by contributing more than £9,000 towards a staggering total of £65,000 for a hospice.

Last year's winner of The Apprentice television show, Tom Pellereau, went along to hand over the prizes in the annual Towergate Challenge in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care.

The team at Jacobs Allen Chartered Accountants and Tax Advisers were among 50 businesses who took part in the challenge of converting £50 into as much money as possible and raised £9,477 to win the overall challenge.

Genzyme, from Haverhill, raised £3,900 to win the Outstanding Teamwork prize – presented by hospice fundraising and marketing director Kevin Clements – while AXA Insurance raised £1,626 and were highly commended in the Judges Award category.

Highpoint Prison, of Stradishall, won the Special Award for successfully engaging and motivating prisoners to take part in a sponsored row in the prison gym, which raised £1,742.

The awards were presented on Tuesday at The West Wing, Ickworth House.

Tom, who won a £250,000 investment

Rising to the challenge: Paul Donno, third from right, with Tom Pellereau, centre, and the team of fundraisers who helped Jacobs Allen accountants win the St Nicholas Hospice Towergate Challenge competition. CP from Lord Sugar as his prize, said: "I am hugely impressed by what you have achieved – this is a fantastic event and such a great idea."

"The top three businesses raised £23,000 between them. This is a huge amount of money and a 1,380 per cent return on investment. I hope Lord Sugar doesn't expect that from me."

Paul Donno, who received the award on behalf of Jacobs Allen, is a former chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce and no stranger to winning it as before merging his accountancy practice with Jacobs Allen in March of this year, his company won the award in 2010, raising £2,500 for the hospice.

Mr Donno said: "We had some fantastic partners helping us to raise these much-needed funds; some very generous people donated to our fundraising and our staff who helped in their own time. Like all good businesses we had a plan and a goal that we stuck to and we are very pleased with the outcome."

The company's successful campaign included a charity race night, a Ready Steady Cook competition and a wine tasting evening.

Barbara Gale, hospice chief executive, told the businesses: "The money you raised goes towards ensuring we can go the extra mile. But you have also shown that fundraising is fun."

Abbecroft has a team taking part in the hospice's Towergate Accumulator Challenge to see who can raise the most from a £50 stake, and it has already raised £100 from a charity car wash at Bury St Edmunds Leisure Centre and four members of staff including the Chief Executive Warren Smvth and General Manager Simon Ginders-Coxshall raised £900 when they were sponsored to have their legs waxed. They hope the calendar will top this.

Cat Rayson, Abbeycroft Leisure's Communications Officer, said: "This year our fundraising for St Nicholas Hospice Care is all about the boys. Last year the girls raised more than £3,000 with sponsored fancy dress events and personal challenges. This year it's the boys' turn. We hope people will enjoy our tribute to the Calendar Girls, Abbeycroft-style."

Abbey Mayes, St Nicholas Hospice Care Corporate Fundraiser, said: "The calendar is a great idea and I can't wait to see the finished product. It's great that the Abbeycroft boys are working so hard to raise funds for the hospice – it will be interesting to see whether they raise more than the girls."

Suffolk LINK, a network of organisations that aims to improve health and social care, are looking for people to carry out 'enter and view' visits so check standards are being upheld.

They are looking for people with past experience or who are passionate about improving care and can commit to at least two visits a year.

The next training session is in Stowmarket on Thursday, October 4.

Building society staff in cycle challenge

STAFF working at a local building society are saddling up for a marathon cycle ride to raise money for charity.

The employees of Saffron Building Society, based in Saffron Walden, aim to cover 150 miles in just over four days of riding, stopping at branches in the region as they go.

Half the proceeds will go to Macmillan Cancer Support and the other half to the building society's own charitable foundation, The Saffron Community Fund, which was established in December 2010 to fund good causes locally.

Jon Hall, Saffron's CEO, will lead the team on the challenge.

He said: "We have always endeavoured to help support good causes both on a local level and by contributing to large charities such as Macmillan Cancer Support.

"We can think of no better way to raise money than by travelling across the many beautiful areas in which our branches are based, and look forward to the opportunity to get involved in local volunteering and fundraising throughout the East of England."

Riders will set off at 10am from the head office in Saffron Walden tomorrow before heading to Haverhill, Halstead and Colchester.

Over the next days, their journey will also then take them through Brentwood, Great Dunmow, Bishop's Stortford, Much Hadham, Sawbridgeworth, Royston and Buntingford, finishing in Ware at lunchtime on Friday, October 5.

Follow Jon on Twitter during the challenge via @saffronbs or online with his blog at www.saffronbs.co.uk/blog/.

Newer face of justice — sporting a nose ring

BY EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PICTURE a female magistrate, and the chances are she looks nothing like Michelina Partridge. With her funky clothes and silver nose-ring, the mum-of-two from Steeple Bumpstead isn't the rather posh, twinset-and-pearls type that you might imagine.

But Michelina, who's been a magistrate for nine years, is exactly the sort of person the magistracy are trying to recruit: ordinary folk from all walks of life who are willing to do something worthwhile for their community.

Michelina, 44, was working as a pilates instructor in Cambridge when she first had the idea. "I heard something on Radio 4 about how they were trying to recruit younger people, and I thought 'that sounds interesting'. I'd done a lot of voluntary work in the past, and I wanted a challenge outside of work that was more cerebral, because my job was quite physical."

She decided to apply, and was pleasantly surprised by the interview process: "They look at your personal qualities, not your professional qualifications," she explains. "It's the first time that all-round fairness, common sense and an ability to think clearly has been recognised of its own value, rather than any pieces of paper I may or may not have had! And I was absolutely chuffed to bits when I got the position."

Then 35, Michelina was the youngest of Cambridge's magistrates, who number nearly 100. Was it how she expected it to be? "I think some people's clichéd impressions of a magistrates court is it's all twinsets and pearls, and people who don't have a clue about reality – and therefore the decisions are dodgy. But I was bowled over by the integrity of everyone on the bench, and I didn't expect that," she admits. "And everyone was unbelievably welcoming, and very keen to have a younger person there."

On average, Michelina spends about one day a fortnight in court, and always looks forward to it: "Especially at the moment, because it's the only way I really use my brain! I've never thought 'I don't want to go in'. Part of that is the variety: it's never a dull day."

Typical cases range from shoplifting ("usually drug and alcohol-related") to motoring offences, "sometimes 50 or 60 a day. It's usually speeding and, especially in this area, going over the red lights at level crossings."

But inevitably, some cases stay with her: "There was quite a young man who'd been in care all of his life, because his mother was murdered when he was five. On the first face of it he'd done something terrible, but when you look into his background you think 'how does anyone manage to pull themselves away

Group's new website offers greater access

AN INDEPENDENT board that brings together organisations and resources to improve efficiency has created a new website.

The ONE Haverhill site went live on September 17 with information on the different bodies involved and minutes of previous meetings.

Organisations can apply for community grants through the website and contact their representatives to express their views.

Members of the board include all three tiers of local government, the voluntary sector, and representatives from the business sector, education, police, health, Havebury Housing Partnership, Abbeycroft Leisure Centre and different religious groups.

ONE Haverhill has been criticised recently by some members of Haverhill Town Council for a lack of transparency in its proceedings as minutes were not easily accessible.

The town council discussed the issue at a full council meeting on September 4.

Anne Gower, chairman of the ONE Haverhill board, said: "The website will go some way in informing people about what ONE Haverhill does, update them on how we are progressing with the community budget pilot, how to contact us and give them access to previous minutes of the Board."

ONE Haverhill is currently taking applications for a second round of community grants worth up to £5,000.

To find out more go to www.onehaverhill.co.uk.

from that?"

"And I remember a Bangladeshi woman who'd been brought over to this country for a marriage, and had been subjected to nasty domestic violence every day for two years. She was due in court and didn't turn up, and when the police went to enquire, her room had been ransacked and she'd disappeared. So you do get a window on some really tragic stories."

Nevertheless, Michelina loves her role: "For me it's the perfect mix of using gut instinct – which is based on your life experience of knowing if someone is telling the truth – and using my very logical, analytical brain for making sure that all our decisions are based on evidence that's presented to us, and not whether somebody's eyebrows are close together or not..."

Would she recommend it? "I would, very strongly, particularly to someone who thinks they might not be accepted. The bench welcomes a mixture. It wants more diversity.

"Because of the time commitment, there tend to be a lot of retired people, and they make great magistrates because they're so committed.

"But the best justice is going to be delivered by a cross-section of people, and the one set of people that are seriously under-represented is, for want of a better word, blue-collar workers: but you'd be a brilliant magistrate because of your experience."

Magistrates have to retire at 70, and Michelina has no plans to stop: "I'm quite happy to keep going until then," she smiles.

"I knew it was going to be fulfilling and stimulating, but I didn't realise quite how much. When you leave court, you feel like you've done something really worthwhile."

'Chuffed': Michelina Partridge says her work makes her feel she's 'done something really worthwhile.'

Shops offering discount deal

INDEPENDENT shopkeepers are offering discounts to anyone who joins a club.

Photographer David Doughty, who runs The Gallery, in Lower Down Slade, encouraged 12 other shops to offer discounts to the public who join The Baby Club.

The club costs £50 and includes four photo shoots of children under four years old over an 18-month period.

Parents will get one free picture from each shoot in a frame and a free passport photo.

Other offers include entry for £1 to Kid

City at Abberycroft Leisure, 10 per cent off jewellery at Tony Strowger jewellers and a free bike stand or lock once you have spent £100 at Chapman and Sons.

Mr Doughty said: "I have been overwhelmed with the support and responses."

"I wanted to try to encourage the people who live in this town to shop locally and so by gaining offers from the other businesses I am very hopeful that others may too come on board."

Meeting is Golden day for Haverhill Hammers

It was a dream come true when football fan Robin Pilley got the chance to spend five hours at the home of West Ham United co-chairman David Gold to share their passion for the east London club while celebrating their return to England's top flight. Here are some of the highlights of Robin's day with the award-winning 'best Premier League chairman'.

SPENDING a day at the palatial mansion home of the chairman of the football club you support, being entertained by the man himself, is the stuff of fantasy for many fans.

But it's a dream that came true for two West Ham United-loving Haverhill brothers who struck Gold and were granted a five-hour audience with one of the club's top men.

Robin and Daniel Pilley, directors of Haverhill's CXG Property Services with Elaine Grubb, write a regular 'Talking Business' column in the Weekly News on the local business scene, in which they interview prominent members of the community and the business world.

Robin decided to try for an interview with multi-millionaire entrepreneur David Gold, co-chairman of West Ham with David Sullivan, after he presented the Property

Woman of the Year award to Elaine at the Hammers' Upton Park ground in east London – and was delighted when he was agreed.

So this summer – just weeks after West Ham made a triumphant return to the Premier League with victory in the Championship play-off final over Blackpool at Wembley – Robin, Daniel and Elaine set off for Mr Gold's home and an unexpected five-hour chat which left Robin with far too much material for a column in the Weekly News.

Instead, he produced a 12,000-word article on the day, focusing on Mr Gold's life story, which can be seen in full at www.haverhillweeklynews.co.uk.

Here, we present some highlights from Robin's write-up, telling his own story as a Haverhill Hammer in dreamland as he surveys his surroundings in awe.

"I looked tentatively at the black cardboard box Elaine was carrying as we were ushered into Mr Gold's living room. We sat on his sofa, and his housekeeper brought us coffee and shortbread biscuits. We were all thinking the same thing as we looked at our surroundings – beautiful ornaments, vases and pictures and out of the windows we could see the tennis court and golf course with West Ham pendants attached – was it the right thing to do to hand over the contents of our little black box?

"It contained a personal gift from us to him – a £50 gold cup bought from a little engraver situated on Haverhill High Street! It had seemed a good idea at the time but we were now having doubts about handing over a cup on which I had negotiated a £10 discount due to a scratch on the plinth, and the fact that the Rat and Ferret pub team had failed to collect it! It also had a dent from where my son had accidentally knocked it down the stairs the previous evening and now, sadly, this gift looked destined to stay in the box forever.

"We now felt able to hand over our little black box. Mr Gold opened it carefully and gently took hold of the trophy inside – he did not hold it aloft like Bobby Moore when West Ham won the FA Cup in 1964, or kiss it, like Bobby had when West Ham won the European Cup Winners' Cup in 1965, or wipe his hands like Bobby had before receiving the World Cup from the Queen, when England (West Ham?) won it in 1966. But he did express a wish it was for the 'Best Premier League Chairman' so it was with delight I pointed to the engraving at the front of the trophy which read 'David Gold – Voted Best Premier League Chairman 2012'.

"On the back, it said 'Voted by the CXG

Hammers Supporters Club'. Mr Gold asked how many members belonged to this particular club. I felt it prudent not to mention that I was the only member and replied 'It was a unanimous decision'.

"When I turned up at the gates of Mr Gold's house this was not the first time I had met him. Our paths first crossed at the opening game of what turned out to be our successful promotion season. After the game, my sons Anders and George wished to collect autographs from the players and were waiting patiently by the same railings that Mr Gold had stood at 50 years previously waiting for Stanley Matthews.

"They noticed two Rolls Royces in the car park opposite, one with Gold and one with Sullivan on the number plates and asked me who they belonged to. After I explained to George, my youngest, he insisted that we wait for Mr Gold to come out of the main entrance. Losing that first game following relegation the previous season, George felt that if he took his favourite badge from his hat and gave it to Mr Gold then our luck would change and promotion would be achieved.

"Some hour and a half later, long after the players had left, the three of us stood silently waiting as Mr Gold strode out of the entrance. It was a typical August day, cold, wet and windy. A West Ham official explained that Mr Gold was not as young as he used to be and wished to get off home and my heart sank as George's eyes got bigger and looked up at me.

"A little rugby scrum suddenly developed around him and Mr Gold soon got engrossed in signing every book put in front of him. We eagerly joined the little crowd and when George got to the front of the queue he handed over his favourite badge and explained to Mr Gold that if he wore it to every game then promotion could definitely be achieved.

"Mr Gold smiled and seemed delighted with his gift, thanked George and meticulously signed both George and Anders' books and placed the badge in his pocket. For the rest of that season every time Mr Gold was shown sitting in the directors' box George looked for his badge, and I reassured him it was probably just behind the diamond studded badge with the initials DG.

"As we finally left the hospitality of David Gold's home, the sun went behind the clouds but my heart was warm and my disposition sunny. Like Mr Gold, whose original dream of being the next Tom Finney in claret and blue was shattered by a screaming coach, I had persevered and found another way of weaving myself into the great tapestry of West Ham's history.

"Just like Moore, Hurst, Peters, Greenwood, Lyall, Brooking and Bonds had entwined themselves into West Ham history, I felt a part of it following my day with David Gold. Memories of these legends' names were floating around in my head as, unlike when we arrived, the gates gently opened seemingly in acceptance of my new-found status. Was it really true to say that Robin Pilley had finally achieved such a goal?

"I will only say this, isn't following your team about creating your own stories? You tell your children, who go on to tell their children, keeping the passion for your team flowing through your family's veins and ensuring its place in history will never fade and die. I had created my story to tell my own grandchildren."

Golden opportunity for more advice

OLDER residents were offered a wealth of advice and information at an event yesterday.

The Golden Age Network Event, run by ONE Haverhill and sponsored by Haverhill Town Council, attracted residents to get advice on health, housing, energy, security and other support.

The event at Haverhill Arts Centre included displays by Age UK, the Safer Neighbourhood Team, NHS Suffolk, the Red Cross, Havebury

Housing, Haverhill Well Being Centre, Abbeycroft Leisure, Live Well Suffolk, West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group, Haverhill Volunteer Centre, St Nicholas Hospice, Co-op Partnership, REACH Community Project and specialist seating company itsyourchair.

Attended by town mayor Cllr Pat Hanlon, the event was designed to give people information and advice about the many services available for the older population in Haverhill.

Around 100 people attended.

Anne Gower, chairman of ONE Haverhill board, said: "We have received very positive feedback from the event and the displays and stalls were busy for most of the day."

"This event aimed to bring a lot of organisations into one room to assist our older residents and I was extremely pleased that we had such a good turnout."

Theories of relativity

A COMEDY of family, romance and confused identities, Relatively Speaking is perhaps the most famous of all Alan Ayckbourn's work. One of the country's most prolific writers, his back catalogue includes more than 70 plays, known for their observational humour and sparkling dialogue.

Greg only met Ginny a month ago but has already made up his mind that she's the girl for him. When she tells him that she's going to visit her parents, he decides this is the moment to ask her father for his daughter's hand. Discovering a scribbled address, he follows her to Buckinghamshire where he finds Philip and Sheila enjoying a peaceful Sunday morning breakfast in the garden, but the only thing is – they're not Ginny's parents.

Two much-loved actresses star in this latest revival: Felicity Kendal and former EastEnders star Kara Tointon. Kendal shot to fame with her role in BBC television's The Good Life and since then has found fame in other television sitcoms including Rosemary and Thyme, and in a significant body of work on stage. Last time we saw her in Cambridge was for Mrs Warren's Profession. She also took part in 2010's Strictly Come Dancing, alongside Tointon, who went on to lift the glitterball with dance (and romantic) partner Artem Chigvintsev. Striking brunette Tointon started her career in the East End based soap before moving into stage work, most notably in the 2011 West End production of Pygmalion, which also featured Rupert Everett.

Described by The Times as "as funny as anything Ayckbourn has ever written", Relatively Speaking opened in 1967 and has remained a classic ever since.

Making it all add up

GENDER, mental health and the family are the hot potato topics of Proof, a paradigm-shifting work by American playwright David Auburn.

When mathematical genius Robert passes away, he leaves his daughter Catherine struggling with the same demons as he did. But they're not the only fatherly asset she's inherited.

Catherine has cared for her father through a lengthy mental illness until his recent demise, when one of his ex-graduate students, Hal, discovers a paradigm-shifting proof about prime numbers in her father's office.

A relationship develops as the pair attempt to prove the authenticity of the document. Meanwhile, Catherine struggles to come to terms with whether or not she wants to follow in her father's footsteps.

A Pulitzer Prize-winning play, Proof was adapted for screen in 2005, starring Jake Gyllenhaal, Gwyneth Paltrow and Anthony Hopkins.

This theatrical rendition is currently on a regional tour, and at the London Festival Fringe was called "brilliant" and "not to be missed".

■ Proof, Mumford Theatre, Cambridge, September 27 at 7.30pm. Tickets are £12.50 (£10 concessions, £8.50 students). Contact 0845 196 2320.

STRUGGLING WITH DEMONS: Proof is at the Mumford Theatre, Cambridge.

Rhod fans the flames of comedy

WALES' angriest comedian (just don't mention the duvet tog system) Rhod Gilbert will be entertaining Cambridge audiences with his best-selling comedy tour, The Man with the Flaming Battenberg Tattoo, for a second date next week.

The multi-award winning comic, described by Time Out magazine as 'one of the best comedians anywhere in the world', has his own BBC show, Ask Rhod Gilbert, and is a favourite on TV panel shows.

Rhod is one of the most popular touring acts of the moment and appears frequently at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival, and in 2008 he entertained the elite at the 80th Royal Variety Performance.

Known for his rants and raves on life's minor irritations, this year's tour promises a somewhat more mellow approach.

He's now so laid back he's even allowed someone to tattoo confectionary on his shoulder.

Find out what that's all about, and more, on Tuesday – it could be Mr Angry as you've never seen him before.

■ Rhod Gilbert, Cambridge Corn Exchange, October 2 at 8pm. Tickets are £25 – contact (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk.

LOOK BACK IN ANGER: Rhod Gilbert is sure to pack them into the Corn Exchange.

The big film

LOOPER certificate 15, 1h 58m

SEVEN years ago writer-director Rian Johnson made a big splash with his ambitious debut, Brick, a classic noir detective story set in a modern-day California high school.

The Maryland-born film-maker is back on fine form with this ingeniously plotted thriller that exploits the gaping plot holes afforded by time travel.

"Time travel has not been invented yet but in 30 years from now it will have been," explains Joe (Joseph Gordon-Levitt), an assassin or 'looper' whose task is to gun down hooded targets who have been sent back in time by his mob bosses, represented by the sadistic Abe (Jeff Daniels).

Silver bars are strapped to the backs of each target as payment for the pull of a trigger. Once Joe has incinerated the lifeless body, he stashes his spoils in a hidden floor-space of his swanky apartment.

Like his fellow loopers, Joe knows his life expectancy is finite and one fateful day he will gun down his future self.

Needless to say, it's crucial that loopers do not allow sentiment to cloud their judgment in case their older incarnations dodge the bullet and run amok, altering the course of the future.

So when Joe hesitates from his bloody duties and allows the 'future' Joe (Bruce Willis) to escape, the race between hunter and hunted begins in earnest.

Looper demands constant vigilance from the audience to keep track of alternate, intersecting timelines.

It's all meticulously planned and stylishly executed, realising Marty McFly's worst nightmare from the Back To The Future series by allowing a hero to co-exist with his future self in the same timeframe.

The ripple effect leads to a simple yet striking flourish: wounds inflicted on a young protagonist simultaneously manifest as scars on the older self.

This temporal torture allows the characters to cleverly communicate with each other by scoring letters and symbols into their own flesh.

Looper reunites Johnson with Gordon-Levitt, his leading man in Brick, who dons disconcerting prosthetics to match the physicality of Willis.

Plot mechanics trump performances so Gordon-Levitt's usual intensity is muted while Willis plays to his strengths as an action man.

A slow-motion final reckoning is spectacular, benefiting from slick digital effects. And Johnson ties up as many loose ends as possible to close the loop on potential sequels.

It's time to think about storage

by Hannah Stephenson

IT'S been a difficult year for fruit and veg, with the cold weather in spring, incessant summer rain and subsequent deluge of slugs, snails, blight and other nuisances.

But for those of us who haven't suffered from poor pollination of fruit crops, tomato and potato blight and slug-infested greens, now's the time to think about how you are going to store what you have.

Temperatures are dropping and tender veg need to be encouraged to ripen before the first frosts. Anyone with unripe tomatoes shouldn't delay in removing leaves from the bases of plants to let in more sunlight to the fruits.

They will need harvesting before the first frosts and should continue to ripen indoors if you pick them now. Cut whole trusses of green tomatoes and hang them in an airy place such as a garage or spare bedroom.

Long-keeper varieties such as the Spanish 'De Colgar' ripen slowly after harvesting if kept in a cool, frost-free place and can take three months to reach maturity, so they'll be ready for eating in winter.

Maincrop potatoes should be harvested on warm, sunny days and left to dry out in the sun, after which they can be stored in thick paper sacks (only half-fill them as this makes it easier to check for bad potatoes) and kept in the dark in a frost-free place. First early and second early varieties generally don't store well, so use these as quickly as you can. Maincrops, however, should store until after Christmas and possibly into March.

Bend the leaves of onions and shallots over at the neck and once they turn brown, pull the plants up but leave the bulbs on the ground to continue to dry off. After about a week, lay them in trays or put them into nets to hang up in the shed. Alternatively, you can make French onion strings (and do the same with shallots and garlic) by keeping as much of the straw-like foliage on them as possible and plaiting it together, reinforcing the strands with hessian twine to make it stronger.

Varieties of early apples generally don't keep so they need to be eaten shortly after picking, but later varieties will keep in the salad compartment in your fridge for between four to six weeks. Alternatively, they can be placed in wooden boxes lined with newspaper, in a cool, airy shed, where the mice won't get them. You can wrap stored apples individually in newspaper to ensure they never touch each other and so prevent one bad apple infecting the whole crop.

GETTING PREPARED :
root veg such as carrots can be stored in boxes – although some others should be left in the garden.

Apples and pears kept in this way should last for six weeks or more and maybe even until Christmas.

Be warned, though, that pears don't store as well as apples. If they are fully ripe, keep them in the bottom of the fridge in polythene bags for up to six weeks. If storing for longer, pick the pears before they are fully ripe and keep them as cold as possible, laying them out on wooden trays in an airy place.

Root veg including beetroot, maincrop carrots and turnips can be stored in boxes, but leave parsnips that you don't want to eat now in the ground as frost improves the taste. You can also leave hardy varieties of leeks where they are and you should still be digging them up until late February.

Winter salads such as radicchio also keep well in the shed in boxes lined with plastic, but should be checked regularly for mouldy leaves, which need removing immediately.

Squashes need to ripen and dry, so when you cut them, leave them outside so the skins dry in the sun. Then bring them into a warm, dry place so that the skins harden. They should keep until Christmas in a frost-free shed, although they store better in a covered porch or in a cool room indoors.

There are certain crops which don't store well, such as sweetcorn and French beans. You'll need to blanch and freeze the surplus for further use.

And then there's all those chutneys and jams you could be making for Christmas...

Your Homesnow Guide to Moving Home

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Homesnow team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls. We suggest you tick them off as you go....

www.homesnow.co.uk

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ☐ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ☐ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ☐ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

2

Change of address – tell companies and organisations that you are moving!

Notify:

- ☐ Employer
- ☐ Inland revenue
- ☐ Local council
- ☐ Banks or Building Societies
- ☐ Credit companies, store cards & other accounts
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and water boards
- ☐ Insurance companies
- ☐ Land / mobile phones
- ☐ Internet and cable / satellite TV providers
- ☐ Doctor, Dentist and Opticians
- ☐ DVLA
- ☐ Veterinary surgery
- ☐ TV Licensing

3 1 WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Delivery address – change delivery address of your Cambridge News, milk, groceries and fuel to your new address as appropriate.
- ☐ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?

- ☐ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.

- ☐ Fridges / Freezers – empty and clean out in preparation for moving. If you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

- ☐ Valuables / documents – put these in safe place for moving day

4 2-1 DAYS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – pack a bag for overnight essentials and toiletries and finish all remaining packing into boxes. Remember to label which room each box is destined for.

- ☐ Snack box – pack a box for the kitchen to include essentials like tea, coffee and sugar, as well as the kettle and mugs! Also include other snacks as necessary.

- ☐ Dismantle and disconnect – take down curtains, fixtures and fittings and disconnect white goods ready for transport.

- ☐ Outdoor items – make sure that these are stacked together and ready to be moved.

- ☐ Mobile – place your mobile on charge the night before moving and ensure that all relevant people have your number.

5 ON MOVING DAY:

AT YOUR OLD ADDRESS:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Finish packing toiletries box.
- ☐ Direct removal firm personnel or friends helping you move as to what needs to be done.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler / central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Make final checks and leave key as arranged with new owners.

AT YOUR NEW HOME:

- ☐ Open up & have a look around the new house.
- ☐ Locate fuse box, gas and electric meter and stop cock for reference.
- ☐ Take readings on gas, electric and water meters as appropriate.
- ☐ Organise the direction of boxes to appropriate rooms.
- ☐ Check the van after all is unloaded.
- ☐ Make the beds up for the evening.
- ☐ Sit down and relax – unpack the other boxes the next day.

Aston Martin launches Vanquish

£3,000 for a banger in MG's trade-in deal

MG HAS launched a new deal where almost any old banger attracts a trade-in value of £3,000.

The company claims the deal is probably the most generous on the market at the moment, with any roadworthy car with at least 14 days' MOT remaining qualifying for the generous valuation.

The offer, which evokes memories of the 'scrappage' incentive scheme of several years ago, is redeemable against either of the two MG6 models in the range; the Magnette and the GT fastback.

Meanwhile, another offer on the two cars entices buyers with a fuel card pre-loaded to the value of £2,400 and usable at Tesco and Morrisons' supermarket filling stations. This is a separate deal that cannot be taken in conjunction with the £3,000 used-car valuation.

Clint Cordle, MG Motor UK's marketing manager, says: "These are both exceptionally good deals on MG6 GT fastback and MG6 Magnette sports saloons which already offer great value for money with high levels of standard equipment."

Deal: Buying a new MG just got £3,000 easier thanks to the firm's new trade-in offer.

Vanquish unveiled in Harston showroom

LAST Friday evening saw the spectacular launch of Aston Martin's new 6.0-litre V12 flagship grand tourer, the Vanquish.

Aston Martin's most potent production model yet, outmuscled only by the strictly limited edition £1.2m One-77 supercar, the Vanquish is capable of a top speed of 183mph with a 0-62mph time of 4.1 seconds. The event, which was held at the Lancaster Cambridge Harston showroom, was a tremendous success with 115 Aston Martins filling the car park as 300 guests arrived to witness the exciting unveiling of the new car. Throughout the evening champagne and canapés were served by local catering company Lemon Thyme. Penhaligon's perfumeries were in attendance presenting products including 'Blenheim Bouquet,' the favorite scent of both Ian Fleming and Winston Churchill. One lucky customer walked away with a stunning state-of-the-art MP3 docking station in the evening's prize draw. Also in attendance for the occasion was the East Anglia's Children's Hospices, who were raising money for the charity.

The new Vanquish was incredibly well received as proved by the response from the event with Lancaster Cambridge confirming several orders on the night.

Richard Gordon, the HLS brand director to the Jardine Motor Group, said how delighted he was by the attendance and the reaction to the new model.

Road train: With Volvo at the helm.

Volvo's road train is now being finalised

THE SARTRE (Safe Road Trains for the Environment) project, involving seven European partners, has been successfully finalised.

The project highlights the potential for implementing road trains on motorways, with platooned traffic operating in a mixed environment with other road users.

Thanks to Volvo and the other partners in the SARTRE road train project, you may soon be able to take your hands off the wheel and your eyes off the road in your own car – leaving the automated driving to modern technology.

"The road train is the best of two worlds. You can enjoy all the multi-tasking possibilities of public transportation behind the wheel of your own car. It's the perfect complement to the true pleasure of driving a Volvo yourself," says Erik Coelingh, technical specialist at Volvo.

"There are several issues to solve before road trains become a reality on European roads. As the leader in car safety, Volvo Car Corporation is particularly focused on emergency situations such as obstacle avoidance or sudden braking. However, we are convinced that road trains have great potential."

Meanwhile Volvo, 15 years after the original V70 Cross Country appeared, Volvo has launched the all-new V40 Cross Country.

The five-cylinder 2.0-litre D4 turbo-diesel delivers fuel-efficient driving pleasure. It offers 177bhp and has torque of 400 Nm across a wide rpm range. Acceleration from 0-60mph takes 7.9 seconds with the automatic gearbox (8.2 sec with manual). Fuel consumption and CO2 emissions are 64mpg (117g/km) with a manual gearbox and 54mpg (137g/km) with the automatic. In addition there is the 2.0-litre D3 producing 150bhp and 350 Nm of torque.

Both turbo-diesels are available with a six-speed automatic transmission or six-speed manual.

Capable: Volvo's all-new V40 Cross Country.

Simple tips to cut your fuel spending

WITH the first signs of autumn now upon us, millions of UK motorists face a shaky outlook as the cost of fuel continues to rise.

Prices have increased steadily throughout the year and are almost at the same level they reached at their peak in 2009, according to the AA's latest figures.

These high fuel prices come as planned rises in rail fares leave families and commuters with even less transport choice.

And the general state of the economy at the moment means many people have less disposable income to begin with.

Unfortunately, there's not much the individual or the government can do about it at present – although the Office Of Fair Trading's investigation into the relationship between pump prices and crude oil has the potential to deliver a fairer deal.

Simply the only way in which the individual can reduce the size of their fuel bill is to use less of it.

Five simple tips could help shave 10 or even 20 per cent off the average fuel bill and cost nothing to implement:

■ Tyre pressures are crucial not only for safety but also for rolling resistance, which is how much friction there is between the tyre and the road.

■ Keep your tyres at their optimum pressure and you minimise rolling resistance while maximising grip.

■ Air conditioning is a wonderful thing in summer but it does use extra fuel.

■ Switch it off when it's not required.

■ Clutter in the boot adds weight to your car and a heavier car requires more fuel to make it move, so remove everything you don't need.

■ Having your windows open creates extra wind resistance which saps fuel. Keep them closed whenever possible.

■ Finally, and most importantly, driving with good anticipation is the key to fuel efficiency. Ideally your speed should change as little as possible. Looking well ahead will mean you have to stop less often as you blend into traffic.

■ Brake gently and slowly and accelerate smoothly.

Mini Paceman due in March

A SPORTY new exterior design, lowered suspension for a dynamic ride and an exciting reinterpretation of the familiar interior – feast your eyes on the all-new Mini Paceman, due for UK launch next March.

Styled as a coupé interpretation of the Countryman, four versions will be available when it arrives in showrooms next spring, including the Mini Cooper S Paceman which will have a 0-62mph of just 7.5 seconds. The seventh unique member of the family, it will sell alongside the Hatch, Clubman, Convertible, Countryman, Coupé and Roadster.

For petrol buyers, the Mini Cooper

Paceman features a 1.6-litre 122bhp unit offering a 0-62mph time of 10.4 seconds, fuel economy of 47.1mpg with CO2 emissions of 140 g/km. The Mini Cooper S Paceman uses the same engine, tuned to deliver 184bhp. It will sprint to 62mph in 7.5 seconds. Fuel economy is 46.3mpg and emissions are 143g/km.

For those who prefer diesel, the Mini Cooper D Paceman uses a 1.6-litre 112bhp turbocharged engine with a 0-62mph time of 10.8 seconds. It will provide owners with a frugal 64.2mpg fuel economy and 115g/km emissions.

The flagship diesel is the Mini Cooper SD Paceman, which gets a 2.0-litre 143bhp engine. Its 0-62mph time is 9.2 seconds. Fuel economy is 61.4mpg with an emissions figure of 122g/km.

For buyers who want the reassuring grip that comes with four-wheel drive, Mini's ALL4 system is available on the Cooper D, SD and Cooper S Paceman, models. And for those seeking the ultimate in Mini performance and desirability, a John Cooper Works Paceman version is in development.

The Mini Paceman will go sale on March, 16 2013 with prices starting at £18,970.

East Anglia 'safest area in UK for bikers'

EAST ANGLIA is the safest area for motorcycle riders in the UK, after new research revealed that the region had the lowest number of accidents in 2011.

With less than one per cent of crashes (180 accidents) occurring in this area, it was at the foot of the table produced by leading specialist MCE Insurance, which examined the worst areas in the UK for accidents to collate its efforts into an interactive map to highlight the figures it found (below).

The majority of motorcycle accidents in East Anglia happened in low speed-limit areas while either approaching or waiting at a junction during rush hour (4pm to 7pm).

Last year, there were a total of 21,059 accidents, with more than 50 per cent of these occurring in the south of the UK. London – where 25 per cent of accidents (5,157) took place in 2011 – was identified as the worst place for motorcycle incidents.

Julian Edwards, group chief executive at MCE Insurance, said: "It is alarming to see such a high percentage of motorcycle riders involved in accidents last year. We hope that this interactive guide will serve as a useful tool to encourage continued safety."

Brook can Crow about cup triumph

Wickhambrook 7 Linton Aztecs 5
CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE CUP,
UNDER-17

DAVID Crowley scored four as Wickhambrook bounced back from 2-0 and 3-1 down inside the first 10 minutes to win this first-round tie.

Aztecs scored from an indirect free kick then a thumping header, before Dan Espin got one for Brook.

Aztecs scored a third with a crisp left-foot volley from Harry Sendall, but Ross Whiting scored the goal of the game with a rasping 20-yard drive into the corner.

Crowley added a brace to get Brook in front, only for Aztecs to level.

Five minutes before the end of a breathless first half, Harry Willett sent Crowley clear and he netted to complete a hat-trick.

The second period was not quite as frenetic, although Aztecs equalised with a good move down the right and a smart header.

Brook finally put the game to bed when first Tom Pinker raced clear and slotted home, then man of the match Crowley found the net with a speculative shot that squirmed home.

Aztecs White 6 Great Chesterford 2
CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, UNDER-9D

MAN of the match Jordan Chipps inspired Aztecs to a superb performance in overcoming a tough Chesterford team.

Lloyd Blackburn gave Aztecs an early lead, only for them to be pegged back after a defensive error.

Freddie Hounscome put Aztecs back in front with a good strike from outside the area, but Chesterford drew level once again with a long-range strike.

Aztecs then took total control of the game and a superb team move saw Sammy Cottage finish from close range to make it 3-2, before Bart Purser added a fourth.

Aztecs then missed several opportunities to increase their lead, hitting the woodwork twice before Hounscome grabbed his second of the game.

Good work from Purser then saw him set up Oliver Scroggie, who rounded off the scoring with a tidy finish to seal an excellent win for Aztecs.

■ Jack Lisher and Finley Plant scored twice each as West Wrattling under-11s beat Histon Hornets 5-1 in Cambs Mini League, under-11B.

Joshua Lee put Wrattling in front in the first half, and Plant and Lisher got their braces after the break, before Histon pulled one back near the end.

Wrattling's man of the match was Sammi Gare.

Jake opens floodgates

FACING Mildenhall again after the previous week's emphatic 45-0 Shield win, the outcome was much the same as the visitors dominated most of the match.

It took Haverhill 10 minutes to get on the scoreboard with a Jake Jeffs penalty from the halfway line, and the first try followed on 18 minutes, when Jack Wilkinson made some hard yards and released Mike Woods to jink through. He set the ball perfectly three metres out and Gavin Hope, Jeffs and skipper Adam Hunt spun the ball out to release winger Brodie Patrick to crash over the line. Jeffs converted for 10-0.

Sustained pressure seven minutes later saw Mildenhall infringe and the quick thinking Hope tapped and ran straight through the Mildenhall line to stroll over the line under the posts, and he again added the conversion.

Another Jeffs penalty on 35 minutes took the score to 20-0 and then, from a Haverhill scrum on their 22m line, Simon Potter broke and set up a move which ended with Patrick storming 70 metres up the wing and cutting into touch down under the posts. Jeffs' extras made it 27-0 at half time.

Mildenhall Red Lodge 0 Haverhill 56
EASTERN COUNTIES TWO

Hope ran on to his own chip for the next try nine minutes into the second half, and Jeffs converted.

Darren Carew was next to cross the line, Jeffs off target on this occasion, but he did convert after Wilkinson dotted down under the posts, both tries having been created by good work from Hunt.

Fly-half Jeffs limped off, Hope taking the No 10 position, and it was his 70m kick which allowed Hunt to gallop over the line.

With 10 minutes remaining, a Mildenhall put-in on a 5m scrum saw Haverhill push the scrum back, and a rushed Mildenhall clearance went straight to Hunt, who completed the scoring by touching down in the corner.

Haverhill still have areas to improve on, but this was one of the best defensive performances seen for many a year.

Their man of match was Dan Harris.

Cutts injury blow proves crucial

Foot in: Neil Cogger is denied by a Dereham opponent.

Picture: Gary Brown (CP)

HAVERHILL fell to defeat against a young Dereham side despite the presence of several first-teamers.

With the first-string without a match, Neil Cogger, Stuart Kingham and Perry Moody all enjoyed a run-out for the reserves.

And as Rovers made a good start, Moody and Cogger combined well in the 10th minute, although Cogger's fine cross from the left could not pick out an attacker.

Tye Darby always looked threatening on the right wing, and he cut inside and fired straight at Matthew Powley in the Dereham goal on the quarter-hour mark.

Joe Boreham and Cogger had further opportunities which were directed straight at Powley and, five minutes before the break, Cody Frazier attempted an audacious lob from the edge of the box only to see his attempt tipped wide.

Rovers keeper Liam Cutts was called into action for the first time in the 48th minute, diving to his left to save from Connor Howett.

Haverhill res 0 Dereham res 1
THURLOW NUNN RESERVE LEAGUE,
PREMIER DIVISION

Cutts damaged his shoulder making the save, and while continuing to play for a further 15 minutes he was eventually substituted, with Moody elected as his replacement.

And the stand-in custodian was forced into making a sharp save to his left to stop Fraser Blake-Tracey opening the scoring after 67 minutes.

However, he was left helpless five minutes later when Joshua Morley evaded the Rovers offside trap and fired home from the edge of the area.

Rovers dominated the final quarter in an attempt to force an equaliser, and it was Frazier who came closest with 14 minutes left, heading wide from a corner.

Haverhill's first-team return to action on Saturday, when they host Clacton. The youth team are due to be at home to Sudbury in the second qualifying round of the FA Youth Cup on Monday.

Paffett eyes title after podium joy

GARY Paffett closed in on the German Touring Car Masters (DTM) title with a solid second-place finish at Oschersleben.

In finishing runner-up to Bruno Spengler, the Haverhill driver maintained the gap in the drivers' standings and he now leads his BMW rival by 11 points with two races remaining – the first of them at Valencia this weekend.

Fellow Mercedes driver and HWA team mate Jamie Green was third and the trio now head the drivers' standings in that same order.

"It's great to be back on the podium after two tricky races at Zandvoort and the Nurburgring," said Paffett.

"The team has done a fantastic job all weekend, giving me a car that handled beautifully in both qualifying and the race. Bruno and I were so evenly matched throughout the weekend and we pulled out a strong gap from the rest of the field during the race.

"I was able to catch Bruno in the final stint and had there been a couple more laps of the race still to go I'm sure I could have taken the win."

Paffett qualified his Mercedes C-Coupe in second place, less than a hundredth of a second behind Spengler, and the pair had a fantastic duel throughout the 51-lap race.

After the second round of pitstops, Paffett began to close in on Spengler and reduced the gap to just six tenths of a second but he was unable to find a way past before the chequered flag fell.

"It's a little disappointing not to have come away with a win," added Paffett.

"But Bruno did a fantastic job and we both pushed hard throughout the race."

Paffett leads the championship with 127 points, with Spengler second on 116. Green is third with 108 points.
